Beyonce Promotes Education -- Singer Teams With Grammy Winners

By Dean Cameron

BURBANK, CA Tuesday 2.3.2004 /netmusiccountdown.com/ -- Texas native, Beyonce Knowles, has been named as one of three honorary chairs of the Texas Music Project, a program to help provide quality music education to Texas government schools and raise awareness of the positive impact music education has on students.

The other two honorary chairs are Clint Black and Flaco Jiminez who, along with Knowles, will donate a song free of charge to the "Don't Mess With Texas Music" compilation CD series.

The first CD in the series featured 20 Texas artists including Willie Nelson, Stevie Ray Vaughn and Erykah Badu.
